AMERICAN MERCHANTMEN.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP NOT FAVOURED.

WASHINGTON, May 4.
The Senate Commerce Committee's substitute report on the House of Representative's merchant marine bill opposes permanent Government ownership of American merchantmen, which it says is less thinkable than Government ownership of the railways and should not be considered except as a last resort. The report, on the other hand, does not favour the disposal of Government owned vessels at bargain prices in order to get them into private hands.

A SOLDIER DIES.

LONDON, May 5.
The death is announced of Brig-General G. D. Chamier, Inspector R.G.A. and of Coast Defences in India. He served with distinction in the Boer War.

UNWARRANTED INTERFERENCE.

NEW YORK, May 5.
The conference of Methodists has passed a resolution urging the defeat of any action by Congress aiming at the recognition of Ireland as a separate republic and opposing all such efforts to induce the United States Government to engage in unwarranted interference in the domestic affairs of Great Britain.

AMERICAN RAILROAD DEFICIT.

WASHINGTON, May 5.
Congress has adopted in Conference reports appropriating three hundred million dollars to cover deficits of the railroad administration.

"BLUE BEARD."

DIXIELAND, May 5.
The man named Watson, the so-called American "Bluebeard" is being tried for the murder of his last wife. He admits that he married over fifteen women. He murdered two or more and witnessed "fatal accidents" to others.

SINGAPORE BARRISTER KILLED.

LONDON, May 4.
Mr. W. C. Niblett, a retired barrister, from Singapore, has been killed in a motor bus accident.

NEW BRITISH ANTI-OPIMUM LEGISLATION.

LONDON, May 6.
The new opium bill prohibits the importation or exportation of raw opium except under licence through approved ports. It prohibits the importation and exportation of prepared opium, and penalises the manufacture, sale, possession, and use thereof. It prohibits importation or exportation (except under licence) of medicinal opium, morphine, cocaine, eugonine, and heroin, the penalty being a fine not exceeding £200 or imprisonment not exceeding six months.

FINANCIAL CRASH IN JAPAN.

OSAKA, May 6.
Owing to the financial crisis, leading wholesalers in cotton and silk piece-goods are reducing their prices by fifty per cent. Weaving firms are suspending work in order to curtail production and prevent a further fall of prices. A few weaving firms have permanently closed down. If the crisis be followed by a protracted depression, Japan must face for the first time serious unemployment, which must aggravate the labour unrest.

IRELAND.

HELPFUL SPEECH BY LORD CHANCELLOR.

LONDON, May 6.
In the House of Lords, debating the situation in Ireland, the Lord Chancellor opined that it would be fruitless to call together Irish convention in view of Sinn Fein extremist views. We would be as well advised to face the situation with the knowledge that a body of desperate, well-organised and able men are bent on to challenge British strength, without shrinking at any means in order to attain so-called self-determination. Sinn Fein disdained every concession and staked all on obtaining from the Empire what the latter could never concede. Every motive which led the United States to resist the secession of the southern states operated more strongly in Great Britain. No nation, and much less any section of a people, ever found it wise to despise the Empire's strength and determination. Did anyone think we were going to surrender to a section after resisting German mightiness?

TRYING TO MAKE TAXES PAYABLE.

LONDON, May 6.
At a meeting of the federation of British industries, the chairman (Ryland) reported the outcome of the joint deputation with the association of chambers of commerce to Mr. Chamberlain, protesting against the sixty per cent. excess profits tax. He said the chancellor was determined to make the greatest inroads possible upon the country's indebtedness during the anticipated period of prosperity. The chancellor submitted alternative proposals, namely:—the retention of the sixty per cent. excess profits tax; secondly, a flat rate tax of ninety pence in the pound on profits to produce an equal amount; thirdly, a levy on war wealth. The last named was apparently additional to some levy on excess profits. The meeting, after discussion, referred the matter to the federation's taxation committee, which later recommended the federation further to consider the point in view of the unexpectedly high flat rate proposed.

THE WAR ON BOLSHIEVISM.

LONDON, May 6th.
The Daily Telegraph's Milan correspondent says that latest reports show that the Russian peasants are ripe for revolt against the Moscow Soviet and would enthusiastically co-operate with an army of real liberators. Consequently, the Polish offensive may ultimately end the Bolshevik regime in Russia. Ukraine's leader Petlura was originally a schoolmaster. He first came into prominence when he formed an army and opposed the German domination in 1918. After Denikin's failure in Ukraine, due to the non-recognition of her independence, Petlura accepted Bolshevik help to drive out Denikin, and then, and as a last of driving out the Reds. After this, Petlura, in November, 1919, secretly negotiated a compact with Pilsudski and used the winter in preparation for the spring offensive. Some well-informed persons have emphasised for the past two years that the only hope of defeating Bolshevism was a Polish-Ukrainian coalition. On the first day of the offensive the Bolshevik army, which was defeated, consisted of 38 infantry and 17 cavalry Divisions. The Reds lost nearly all the artillery. Then Moscow sent a wireless to Warsaw imploring for the resumption of peace negotiations, which were cynically broken off.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

LONDON, May 6th.
In the House of Commons, replying to Lord Robert Cecil, Mr. Bonar Law said that he had no information that it was intended to continue the work of the Supreme Council alongside the League of Nations. Answering Mr. John Gurney, Mr. Bonar Law stated the International Labour Office's Commission to Russia will consist of five workers, five employers and two officials—the two former to be chosen by the respective groups on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office. Britain and France had been asked to nominate officials. The Soviet Government had not so far replied to the request to admit the Commission, which would not go unless a reply were received. Replying to Commander Kenworthy, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth said that the position of Sultan Fouad of Egypt was the same as that of his predecessor, Hussein. Found derived authority from the King in the same way as the Khedive derived authority from the Sultan of Turkey. Fouad's son was recognised as the heir to the throne. Mr. Harmsworth added that the Imperial Government was satisfied to decide questions affecting the succession to the throne of Egypt by virtue of the assumption of the rights previously exercised by Turkey.

UNREST IN IRELAND.

LONDON, May 6th.
In the House of Commons, replying to Mr. Horatio Bottomley, Mr. Bonar Law said it is understood that appeals for subscriptions for Bond Certificates, addressed to the Sinn Fein De Valera, are still appearing in certain newspapers in the United States. The Government did not propose to make representations to America on the subject. Mr. Bottomley drew attention to the report that already $2,000,000 had been subscribed, triumphal processions held and De Valera entertained by State Governors, and suggested that this amounted to an unfriendly act. Mr. Bonar Law replied that it is not always wise to take action to which we are legally entitled. Commander Wedgwood affirmed that the malicious campaign was destroying Anglo-American friendship. Mr. Chadwick described the bestowal of the freedom, on the outlaw, De Valera, of New Orleans as a deliberate insult by an ostensibly friendly Power. Mr. Bonar Law replied that he was quite satisfied that such demonstrations in no way represented the good feeling of the United States. He believed that any action of the British Government in this connection would only make the relations worse.

MAN BEHIND THE SCENES IN CHINA.

LONDON, May 6th.
Sir John Jordan, ex-Minister to Peking, interviewed on his arrival in London, was of opinion that Bolshevism would not make great headway in China as the Law was good, and peasants were holding land direct from the State. China looks to England and the United States for general guidance. England and America required a strong, organised China for a strong China was the world's commercial asset. China, after the war, was noteworthy for its strong public opinion, but the public opinion was in need of guidance. Forty years ago there was one newspaper in China; now there were hundreds of them. The most powerful man in China was Tahn Chi-jui, one of Yuan Shih-kai's Generals. He was the man behind the scenes.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES.

THE NECESSITY FOR TEAM
WORK.Mr. Henry Sutcliffe Smith, President of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce, recently wrote to a Bradford contemporary:—In these days of reconstruction—that blessed word—many people are observed with the idea that any halting in the chariot wheels of progress towards the goals of which we spoke and heard so much during the war years, is due wholly to the inefficiency of the workers and wage-earners.We are too apt to say that if the working classes were more efficient, increased output, that high productivity which is described as the only way out, would be assured.The greater efficiency is not only desirable, but possible among the masses of our population may be taken for granted.The eye or hand or brain raised to its highest power, is one of the scarcest things in the world. There is always room for improvement, and the greater the skill the higher one's conception of skill becomes.But is there no need for efficient masters as well as for more efficient men? Is not management half the battle of business?

RED TAPE IN BUSINESS.

In fact it is not too much to say that the inefficient master robs the efficient workman of the just fruit of his toil.He depresses production by lack of forethought, by unbusinesslike method, by bad organization, by insufficient and inefficient mechanical aids to production, by repetition and duplication.There is red tape in business as well as in Whitehall.To-day it is up to every owner of machinery for the making of goods to see that his machinery is doing its utmost, in other words, to make increased production as easy as possible for the workers.Someone has said: "Sweet the machinery and not the man." It is a good saying and carries far.The manufacturer who keeps obsolete and inefficient machinery in his factory, mill or workshop to-day, is not only his own worst handicap, but is doing his work-people a deep injustice and his country a disservice.

A STRONG PULL TOGETHER.

Yet even with efficient men and efficient masters, progress may still be slow, recovery of our broken national fortunes tardy. If two rowers sit back to back in their boat and pull with might and main, they do not make much headway.And, to-day, not only national but individual selfishness—self-seeking rather—is a skid on a wheel already going uphill.Sympathy is the best spur to speed.
It is a fatal mistake to regard a man as a mere cog in the machinery of production.We want a spirit of comradeship, the spirit that helped us to win the war, and above all, sympathy, the sympathy that recognises the right of the employee to his share of what is worth while in this world, and which endeavours to help him to attain it.The employer who, like Abou Ben Adhem in Leigh Hunt's beautiful poem, says—"Write me as one who loves his fellow-men," is on the right road to increased production.Slave driving always spells bad business.

PUT A CURB ON THE TONGUE.

Tennyson says "The tongue is a fire." Probably the poet borrowed it from the Bible, which speaks of how great a fire a little spark kindles.In any case both sayings are true, and there is nothing more important to-day than that masters and men should check, by every means and in every interest, the tendency to say things, that inevitably cause misconception, acrimony and strife.These are crucial times. I quote the old formula, we want "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," and bias destroys truth; is often, indeed, more dangerous than the most outspoken opposition. And, after all, are we not thinking and talking far too much of wages and profits and devoting far too little attention to, and taking too little interest in, the quality, the excellence, and the workmanship of the goods we turn out.

UNITY IS STRENGTH.

We want unity in our workshops most of all, singleness of purpose, the spirit of the trenches.The spirit of the trenches. Yes, but in these days of peace let us rather say, the spirit of the football field, where every man, be he goalkeeper, forward or back, plays for the team.Each man is as keen for the general success of the team as for his own, and that very keenness is his best contribution both to his own honour and his team's glory.Nay, not only does he play for his team, but for the town, the country, that team represents. He is one of a band of enthusiasts all striving for the same goal.Surely as we had the spirit of comradeship and unity in war, and as we have it on our playing fields in peace, we can, by ridding ourselves of individual selfishness, attain the same ideal when playing the great game of life.

THE COMMON CAUSE.

As a step in this direction it needs no prophetic vision to foresee that the time is ripe for the extension of co-partnership and profit-sharing schemes on practical lines. Many such schemes are already in existence, some of which are admirable, and it is to be hoped in the near future there will be many more.In such matters it is impossible to legislate for industry as a whole, in view of the fact that each section

WIFE'S WRONG-DOING.

DIVORCE JUDGES DEFINITION
OF "CONDONATION."In the Divorce Court on February 27, Mr. Justice McCardie gave an important judgment on the plea of condonation in matrimonial offences.
John Edward Cramp, a stud groom, asked for the dissolution of his marriage on the ground of his wife's misconduct during his absence in the Army, with the correspondent, Harry Freeman, a farmer, and a former friend. Misconduct was not denied, but the wife alleged that her husband had condoned the offence.
Petitioner denied condonation.His Lordship said he accepted the evidence of the wife as to cohabitation, but the question arose, as to whether there had been condonation.
Condonation was generally described as a conditional forgiveness of a known matrimonial offence—an implied condition that no further matrimonial offence shall be committed. By the matrimonial law of this country, if condonation took place the record was not blotted out, but over it, so to speak, was placed a merciful obscuring veil. But in the event of a new matrimonial offence the injured spouse may lawfully raise the veil and point to the record which had previously been hidden.
This, however, was not the Christian doctrine of forgiveness.It seemed to him (the Judge) vital to remember that the forgiveness of condonation might be a wholly different thing from the forgiveness spoken of by ordinary men and women. A true definition of con-donation was that it was a conditional waiver of the right of an injured spouse to take matrimonial proceedings, and was not forgiveness in the ordinary sense.What was the doctrine of condona-tion? A man could not exercise the rights of a husband and claim the discontinuance of the marriage bond.
Therefore a man who had relations with his wife, with knowledge of her misconduct, must be conclusively presumed to have condoned her offence. To hold otherwise would be a blot on the jurisprudence of this country. In the present case con-donation had been established, and the petition would be dismissed.Leave to appeal was applied for,
and the Judge suggested that, as it was a poor person's case, petitioner should apply to the Court of Appeal.of industry has its own peculiarities and technicalities, and no scheme can be devised which is applicable to all in every detail.All, however, have one thing in common, and it is that the prosperity of employers and employees alike are inextricably bound up together, and provided the spirit of team work and comradeship pervades all parties, there is no difficulty which could not be overcome.

TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE.
HONGKONG, SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1920.

ZIONISM.

The editor of the Zionist paper in Shanghai is arranging for a symposium on the subject of Zionism, and has asked the editor of the China Mail to contribute his opinions.

"At first onset, we believed we had no opinions on that subject. Turning it over in our mind, we began to notice that this was not exactly the case; but at the same time we realized that we could not afford to make any intellectual effort that did not, in the first place, cater for our own readers. Our brother in Shanghai, if he find anything herein to suit his purpose, is welcome and invited to take what he wants. Some of it, quite probably, he will not want."

In any matter, in which we are not keenly interested, and not well informed, we are usually willing to be guided by anyone whom we know to be both. In the matter of Zionism, we are prepared to endorse whatever Mr. Israel Zangwill says or may say. We have a very thorough respect for his intellect and his principles.

Approaching the subject independently, as an outsider, we find ourselves entertaining the belief that Zionism cannot be really popular amongst the materially prosperous Jews. In the case of the poor and oppressed, living amongst alien cruelties and unsympathetic laws, we can appreciate the appeal of the ideal. We can also understand the sympathetic endorsement of it by better-off Jews who do not themselves need it to be happy.

Palestine is a poor country, not the most suitable one in which to colonize and establish or re-establish a nation. It must mean bitter disappointment for some of those who try it. At its best, unless handed over completely and without encumbrance to the Jews, we do not see what good it can be to them. If they are to go there and build up under British laws, British protection, and British control, we cannot see any other than the sentimental reason why they should prefer Palestine to any other part of the British Empire.

We have still to be instructed concerning the very vital question whether it is indeed a national spirit which is drawing the Jews together in this common aspiration, or the religious one. Perhaps it is both?

There has been one thing very pertinent indeed that was sufficient to bind their scattered constituents, and that was persecution. Hardly any race possesses (or has the right to possess) a clear conscience in this connection. Were we Jewish, we would feel disposed to love every other Jew, of whatever nation, because of the tie of a mutual hatred. We should hate Christendom, and expect him to hate it too. But that is not helpful. It is too reminiscent of the German hymn of hate, and of the patriotic resolutions by anti-Germans of the "never again" order.

We are told that the dream of the ultimate restoration of Judea (as a kingdom) has always persisted in Jewry. We can believe it and sympathize with it. But we are also told that there are Jews, even Rabbis, who prefer to await the Messianic restoration that was foretold, and to await the divine initiative. Into that division of opinion we are not competent to intrude. Were it necessary, we could think of arguments in support of the modern Zionist proposals as against that. God works through men, and it would be a bold man who would declare that the notion of a Zionist agitator is not due to divine initiative. We have our own adage, that God helps those that help themselves.

On the academic side, pro and con the provenance of a home country, and that Palestine, we assume that the time has gone by for argument. The movement is too widely supported to be abandoned. The Turkish obstacle is removed. The difficulties now are practical. Will a Republic meet the ambition? Will the settlers include sufficient of the producing class, agriculturists, etc., to give the new nation a good start on the way to be self-supporting? They cannot continue to exist by lending each other money, and it is mainly their financial genius that looms in the vision of the outsider. It is, as we have said, a poor country. Yet so was Utah, which the Mormons colonized, and made to yield a good harvest. What they did the Jews can do. From the various countries where anti-semitism is still strong, there would emigrate thousands who could not suffer by the change. They would have little to lose and much to gain. When the Nasin Gishin plateau of 6,000 square miles in the East African Protectorate was offered to Dr. Herzl seventeen years ago, the first time that Zionism became a really live political possibility, it caused a split amongst the Jews, and betrayed the fact that many of them were not swayed by prospects of material gain, but by the sentiment before referred to. It had to be the Holy Land or nothing, the chosen home of the Chosen People. Mr. Zangwill, it seems, was in favour of any suitable land, so long as the Jews could get together in it. This cannot mean that he is likely to object to Palestine now, but only that he at that time saw no chance of it. The war has changed the situation entirely. Not only has it made literal Zionism possible, but it has made some countries in which Jews were oppressed and unhappy more congenial to them. With the opportunity to leave may have come a diminished desire to go. We don't know; we surmise.

Our philosophy as regards nationalism generally we have previously explained. If there is any real prospect of universal tolerance, of cessation of these stupid racial prejudices, we see no need for the establishment of another nation; and we see advantages for both sides in a free inter-nation. All the peoples can do with more of the Jewish intellect; it seems to us that the Jews would be no worse for some of the religious breadth of mind and "easy tolerance" that is spreading so much amongst the Gentiles, tending to emphasise the good that is in all religions alike, and the wickedness of narrowness.

Thus we have nothing particularly useful or original to add to the proposed symposium. We are not biased either way, and it will be recognized that we do not sit upon any fence between. We have thought little about it, but what we have thought we have freely expressed, regardless of usual of what impression it may make. Jew or Gentile, Britisher or German, white man or coloured, all are the same to us—human, fallible, suffering, fusing, like unto gnats dancing in the sunshine of the one and only God. We regard their self-made divisions and distinctions as strange and mischievous delusions, their final coming together in alliance against the common obstacles to the happy life as the one sure and true faith. We exhort all men of good will to expedite it.

CUR RICSHAS.

This report on the improvement of richas services in Hongkong during the year 1919 is official.

As a result of the question asked in Legislative Council by the Honourable Mr. P. H. Hoysak on the 30th January, 1919, a Committee was appointed consisting of the following for the purpose of selecting a new type of richa to be put into service in the Colony:—Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, Captain Superintendent of Police, Hon. Mr. P. H. Hoysak, H. N. Mr. S. H. Dowling, Mr. A. Shelton Hooper, Mr. J. W. Franks, and Commander C. W. Beckwith, R.N.

The Committee met in the command of the Central Police Station on the 31st March, 1919, and five different types of richa were submitted for their inspection. Of these one had been imported from Shanghai, and was then lying for hire in Hongkong and one in Kowloon, and two were specially made for the occasion. The Committee selected the best features of each type and a complete vehicle was constructed in accordance with this selection. This vehicle was put on view at the Central Police Station and all richa proprietors were invited to take the necessary notes for their guidance and were informed that in future only richas of this type would be passed by the Police for service.

There are 1,150 public richas licensed for hire on the lower levels of Hongkong, 16 for hire on Causeway Road and the Upper Levels, and 15 for service on the Peak. 50 temporary licences have also been issued making a total of 1,231. Since the selection of the new type of vehicle by the Committee 348 of this type have been passed by the Police and brought into service in Hongkong and a similar number of the old type withdrawn. In Kowloon there are at present 600 public richas licensed for hire, of which some 250 were practically new at the time of the selection of the improved type. It would be unreasonable therefore to expect the proprietors of these richas to make any great change in their machines for some time so that only some 10 of the new type have so far been passed for service in Kowloon. At present also there is considerable difficulty in obtaining the materials for constructing new vehicles.

All the richas in the Colony have now been fitted with spring cushion seats and about one-third of each proprietor's vehicles has been fitted with thick rubber tyres. The remainder will be gradually fitted with thick tyres when the tyres at present in use require renewing.

At the Magistracy before Mr. R. O. Hutchison this morning, a Chinese woman was charged at the instance of Sub-Inspector Patterson with the unlawful possession of 15½ tael of raw opium. The woman admitted possession, but said the drug was given to her by a friend to keep. She did not know the parcel contained opium until the Police opened it. Inspector Patterson said the defendant kept a brothel in Yau-mai. The Police visited the house yesterday in connection with another case, and found several people smoking opium there. The Police instituted a search, and in a basket under the bed, the key to which the defendant had in her possession, they found the raw opium. A fine of $100 was imposed, or, in default, two months' hard labour. The drug was forfeited.

When a Chinese was this morning charged before Mr. R. O. Hutchison with the unlawful possession of a Khaki coat, the property of a Sanitary collector, he said he bought it for 20 cents in the Lower Lascar Row. Inspector Willis said the complainant lost the coat in December, and while he was in West Point yesterday, he saw the defendant wearing the coat. Going up to the defendant, the complainant accused him of theft, and he denied it. The complainant examined the coat, and inside, on the lining, he found his number. In spite of this, the defendant refused to surrender the coat, and the men came to blows. A constable came up and arrested them both. His Worship said he did not think he could convict the defendant, as it was quite possible he had in fact bought the coat. It was stolen nearly six months ago, and he did not see how the defendant could now be accused of stealing it. The coat might have changed many hands during the six months. He discharged the defendant, but ordered the coat to be returned to the complainant.

Going up to the defendant, the complainant accused him of theft, and he denied it. The complainant examined the coat, and inside, on the lining, he found his number. In spite of this, the defendant refused to surrender the coat, and the men came to blows. A constable came up and arrested them both. His Worship said he did not think he could convict the defendant, as it was quite possible he had in fact bought the coat. It was stolen nearly six months ago, and he did not see how the defendant could now be accused of stealing it. The coat might have changed many hands during the six months. He discharged the defendant, but ordered the coat to be returned to the complainant.

At the Magistracy before Mr. R. O. Hutchison this morning, a Chinese woman was charged at the instance of Sub-Inspector Patterson with the unlawful possession of 15½ tael of raw opium. The woman admitted possession, but said the drug was given to her by a friend to keep. She did not know the parcel contained opium until the Police opened it. Inspector Patterson said the defendant kept a brothel in Yau-mai. The Police visited the house yesterday in connection with another case, and found several people smoking opium there. The Police instituted a search, and in a basket under the bed, the key to which the defendant had in her possession, they found the raw opium. A fine of $100 was imposed, or, in default, two months' hard labour. The drug was forfeited.

When a Chinese was this morning charged before Mr. R. O. Hutchison with the unlawful possession of a Khaki coat, the property of a Sanitary collector, he said he bought it for 20 cents in the Lower Lascar Row. Inspector Willis said the complainant lost the coat in December, and while he was in West Point yesterday, he saw the defendant wearing the coat. CIVIL SERVICE PAY.

It is believed that the full news in regard to Civil Service Salaries will be available for publication within a week, the decision of the Secretary of State for the Colonies on the recommendations of the Local Civil Servants' Salaries Commission, under the Chairmanship of Sir William Rees Davies, as approved by His Excellency Sir Reginald Stubbs, being in the hands of the Colonial authorities here.

They say the decision made is of such a nature as to involve a great deal of departmental work before publication of its provisions, as authorized, can be made.

We have been informed that the new rates of salary will be effective as from January 1st of this year, and that from the same date such items as duty pay, separation allowances, and temporary increases on salaries will be regarded as having ceased. It is understood that the new salaries are such as to include various items which have heretofore been given as separate allowances; in short, that all regular items of income of officers, wherever possible, are counted in the regular salary.

The new rate of exchange on sterling salaries is said to be 2-0 on the dollar on all, instead of 80 per cent. at 1-9d. and the remainder (20 per cent.) at prevailing local rate.

A modification is made in the ruling as to acting appointments in that an officer acting for a superior, who is on leave, will receive the salary due to an acting officer under existing regulations from date of assumption of duty as such.

Officers not entitled to free quarters will be permitted to occupy Government quarters on payment of rent equal to 6 per cent of their salaries, effective as from January 1 of the current year. Otherwise, present regulations in regard to rent and house allowance still remain in force.

The same deductions will be made from salaries on account of Widows' and Orphans' Pensions as has been the case heretofore.

Until specific details are given out by Heads of Departments as to how the new rules will effect civil servants generally, no further information can be given. These details will probably be ready to be made public on Friday next.

The China Mail learns that the new rates of salary are payable as from January 1, 1920, from which date duty pay, separation allowance, and temporary percentage on salary will cease. Sterling salaries will be payable at exchange 2-0 to the dollar, subject to the provisions of General Order 121; with the exception that paragraph (2) of that order must be read as though the words "in China or Japan" appeared in place of the words "in a country having a silver standard or in Asia." An officer proceeding on vacation leave to China or Japan must obtain the permission of the Government, prior to his departure, to draw his salary at exchange 2-0.

It is intended that the new salaries shall as a general rule include the allowances of various kinds which are now paid to certain officers for particular duties; though in special circumstances these allowances may be continued in whole or in part with regard to acting appointments an officer acting for a superior officer who is on leave will receive the salary due to an acting officer under the existing regulations from the date of assuming the duties of the acting appointment. Officers not entitled to free quarters, who occupy quarters supplied by the Government, will pay rent for such quarters at the rate of 6% upon salary, with effect from the 1st January, 1920. The existing regulations regarding rent and house allowances remain otherwise in force for the time being; but officers accepting the new scale of salary will be required to conform to such arrangement as may hereafter be made, irrespective of any special rights of which they may be possessed at the present time. An officer will count all his past service in a grade for purposes of increments of salary in such grade. Deductions on account of the Widows' and Orphans' Pension Fund will be made according to the existing arrangement.

NEW BEES.

QUEENS 8s. 6d. EACH POST FREE.

Discharged soldiers can buy a bee for 8s. 6d. post free from the Government. But it is a queen bee, which may become mother of many thousands.

The Ministry of Agriculture has arranged for their importation from Italy. Applications are to be made in time to enable the Ministry to know before March 31 how many will be required.

This is part of the Ministry's plan to restock the country's hives and restore the bee-keeping industry to its old position, for sale of Wight disease-ravaged British varieties. The plan will be self-supporting.

THE CROWN AGENTS.

It is gratifying to find the Hongkong Chamber of Commerce coming into line with the business men of other Crown Colonies on the vexed question of the Crown Agents and the monopoly they enjoy of Government business to the detriment of British firms. It was in 1907 that Hongkong blocked the way to co-operation. The West India Committee had issued a circular. There was talk of a rapprochement between Ceylon and Singapore to end the evil. But Hongkong merchants, for some inexplicable reason, declared in favour of the system. As we said at the time, the only possible way to put an end to this unsatisfactory system is to combine to send a strong case Home. We seem nearer co-operation to-day than we ever were. The committee of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce are now in entire sympathy with the action by the Singapore Chamber in the matter of indenting for supplies, with a view to Government allowing local firms the opportunity to compete for the business, and it is hoped that the matter which has again been referred to the Secretary of State will receive favourable consideration. They hold that the Colonial Government has an opportunity of assisting local British firms which it cannot be said it went out of its way to do before the war. It is not suggested that the ratepayer should suffer, but merely that local British firms should be given the opportunity to compete for the business, which would appear to be in the ratepayer's interest. The name of the Crown Agents has from time to time become associated with unnecessary expenditure, unconscionable delays and even deficiency in quality. In any case, it seems fair to argue that the man who comes out here and accepts all the risks of life in the Tropics should receive more consideration than he has done. He contributes his share to the revenue of the country. He should be encouraged to tender for locally required goods, and should be given regular opportunities of competing with Home firms for the supply of materials which will be paid for out of the revenue he helps to produce. All this and much more we, and many others, have been saying for the last twenty years. We look now to co-operation to put paid to an antiquated system.

We have suggested before that at least one of the functions of the Crown Agents—that of selecting certain officers for the Public Services of Malaya—might profitably be taken over by the Malay States Information Agency. In the first place, the staff of the Agency know better than the Crown Agents the class of man required for a particular post. Secondly—and this is of equal importance—the Agency would go on advertising until they found the required man. That is to say, they would take a keen interest in getting the right man, which the Crown Agents could hardly be expected to do. Of course, it is a matter of our own personal knowledge that the staff of the Agency have had heavy demands made on their time and their energies during the past eighteen months. The demands will naturally continue until demobilisation is complete. They have had to deal with a continuous stream of young men who wanted to know all about Malaya (and incidentally about the 100 acre land grants!). But when the pressure subsides we think the Agency personnel would be prepared to take on the work of selecting men for the Malayan Service, and would carry it out with credit to themselves and profit to this country. We do not know what the attitude of the Crown Agents towards such a transfer of duties would be. But we imagine they would be glad to be relieved of what can but be a rather thankless task.—Malay Mail.

WOMAN'S BURIAL AT SEA

"NO Gaping CROWD OR FALSE SORROW"

Miss Margery Deakin, the artist whose body was found on the beach at Royde, North Devon, was buried at sea at Portbeacon, near St. Austell, in accordance with a wish expressed in her will.

She named two fishermen whom she wanted to take her body in a leaden coffin out to sea in their boat, when they went fishing, and to drop it quietly over the side, "without any gaping crowd looking on, or any relatives, or hypocrites expressing false sorrow."

Charles and William Axford, the two men named, superintended the removal of the coffin to their small rowing-boat. The boat was rowed up to a waiting motor-fishing lugger, which conveyed its strange freight six miles out and three miles from the nearest land. There the coffin was placed on a couple of planks and slid into the sea.

WEDDING.

CAPTAIN CAMPBELL AND MISS HURDLEY MARRIED.

At St. John's Cathedral, this afternoon, Miss Emily Hurdley was united in wedlock to Captain William James Campbell of the 74th Punjabis, the Rev. M. W. Shewell, C.F., officiating.

The bride was given away by Dr. J. T. C. Johnson, P.C.M.O., and Lieut. J. K. McConnell, of the same regiment as the bridegroom, acted as best man.

During the ceremony were rendered "The Voice that Breathed, O'er Eden," and "O, Perfect Love."

The bride's dress was of white satin with panthers of chiffon, trimmed with heavy white fringe and silver girdle. The train was of white satin, and the veil of Brussels net worked with true lover's knots.

Miss Edith Girling, Miss Dora Lund and Miss Barbara Earle acted as bridesmaids and wore white hand-embroidered net with sage blue sashes and white georgette hats.

A reception was held after the ceremony at Kingsclere, where a host of friends called to pay their congratulations.

MacDonald, silver sweet dishes in case (four); Capt. Monro, Archer, two embroidered tea cloths; Dr. Dick, silver cigarette case; Mr. Phelps, silver sweet dishes; Miss Cooper, embroidered tea cloth; and Miss McEneaney, blackwood stool.

Other beautiful gifts included those from Sister Lund, Miss Bennett, Miss Scanlon, Mrs. W. V. Dowley, and Mr. R. Humphreys.

The honeymoon of Captain and Mrs. Campbell will be spent in British New Territories.

TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF.

If you want a clear head and good digestion you must not let your bowels become clogged with poisonous waste from the body. It is always the case when you become constipated. Proper food, an abundance of water and plenty of outdoor exercise should keep your bowels regular. When these fail you should take than's Tablets. They cause a gentle movement of the bowels and are easy and pleasant to take. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

"SONG MA" MAY BE FLOATED.

The s.s. "Song Ma," as announced previously, went aground about 6 miles N.E. of Hong Ham Bay en route from Hoibow to Quangche Wan. These passages are not very much frequented and the charts are incomplete. As a rule it is possible to engage a pilot at Pak Sha, a small town on the S.E. of the Liang Chow Peninsula.

The "Song Ma" is on a reef. Water has been encroaching little by little in her holds. Help has been sent from Haiphong and also from Fort Bayard. Her cargo is being discharged. The cargo in the tween decks for Quangche Wan was only very slightly damaged, excepting some packages which were jettisoned when the vessel went aground.

Part of the crew arrived in Hongkong by the "Hanoi" to-day, others were sent to Haiphong by the French Revenue Cruiser which went to the assistance of the "Song Ma."

The Captain, the Chief Engineer and a few men are on board trying to save the steamer with the help of a party sent to their aid.

The above account is the official one given out by Messrs. P. A. Lapicque & Company, the owners of the "Song Ma," after the arrival of Mr. Lapicque from the scene of the wreck. In addition to the one first class passenger, the others, several deck passengers, were also removed from the vessel in safety. The ship is said to be in a favourable position, and the company expects to float her very shortly with the aid of launches from Haiphong. Most of the cargo is uninjured.

SANITARY BOARD.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Sanitary Board, Dr. F. M. G. Ozorio, pursuant to notice, will ask:

(1) Will the Government accelerate the completion of the roads around Homogin as in their present conditions they contain pools which may breed mosquitoes?

(2) Does the Government contemplate the creation of the post of Factory Inspector? If so, will the post be open to women?

(3) Will the President appoint a sub-committee to study the need or otherwise of building concrete dustbins in the smaller lanes so as to facilitate the scavenging of the Colony?

(4) Has any answer been received from the Government to the report of the sub-committee of the scavenging of the Colony? If so, why has it not been laid on the table?

Sing hey for the days of the bold Buccaneer!

PROFITS ON ENEMY SHIPPING.

£51,000,000 ABOVE ESTIMATE.

Colonel Leslie Wilson, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Shipping, in moving a supplementary estimate for salaries and expenses of that department, in the House of Commons, said the object of the estimate was to obtain authority from Parliament to appropriate a further sum of £19,500,000 of receipts in aid of expenditure. The principal cause of the excess gross expenditure over the original estimate was the expense in connection with the enemy tonnage which had been surrendered under the terms of the armistice and allocated to and managed by Great Britain. Altogether there were 240 ships with a gross tonnage of some 1,300,000 tons. He did not wish to anticipate any statement he might have to make in presenting the supplementary estimate for the coming year, but he thought he could indicate the probable receipts for 1919-20. With regard to the actual amount estimated for the sales of enemy ships during this financial year, in the original Estimate was a sum of £48,000,000. He thought it would be nearer £49,000,000, but it would be in connection with the earnings of the ships that the largest increase would be experienced over the original Estimate. That would be by something like £54,000,000.

The recoveries from Dominion loans, estimated originally at £12,000,000, would probably this year amount to £18,000,000, making total surplus receipts over estimates of some £61,000,000.

Commander Viscount Curzon (C.U. Battersea, S.) asked for information regarding the River Clyde. How came it that a ship with such historic associations was sold to an alien firm in an alien country?

Sir W. Raeburn (C.U. Dumbarton) foresaw the prospect of a slump in shipping. There was more shipping in the world now than when the war commenced; the world, in fact, had all the shipping that was wanted, and were it not for congestion which held up the vessels there would be adequate tonnage.

Colonel Wilson, replying to the debate, said there had been a large number of sales of ships built on Government account. Ships sold to foreigners numbered 104 built at home, and 101 built abroad. These sales had been mainly in liquidation of obligations to our Allies under definite commitments the Government entered into for services rendered during the war. No one was more anxious than he to see that no ships were sold abroad more than was absolutely essential to the national interest. If it had been possible to bring the River Clyde home to England it would have been done, but the cost was prohibitive. After all, only the hull was left. The cost of towage would have been £20,000 to £30,000, and the department felt it was justified in selling her for what was a very considerable sum. With regard to enemy ships, the Ministry had been making use of those allocated to us, a certain number had not yet been handed over because they were under repair, or for some other reason. The Reparations Commission was dealing with the allocation of these vessels.

On a division the vote was carried by 223 to 51.

PERPETUAL MOTION AT LAST.

Perpetual motion by water power is a discovery claimed by a Bedford man and a patent has been granted to him for his invention. The patent consists, according to his statements, of two reservoirs, one large above, one small below. The water flows, at will, from the top reservoir to the bottom one. In its descent it works a perfectly water-tight water turbine, escaping at the exit from the base by a pipe the same size as the intake pipe. The water enters another turbine in a similar manner, and this operation may be repeated as often as desired, until the water arrives at the lower reservoir, from which it is pumped up to the higher reservoir by a suction pump operated by a fraction of the power created by the turbines. The inventor claims that his invention requires no coal for creating the power, therefore it is cheap; also that not being dependent on running water it is applicable anywhere. We are reminded that for 1925 Old Moore's Almanack says:—"The grandest discovery of March will prove to be of the utmost value to industry. An entirely new source of power is found, which will revolutionise manufacturing."

There is no overweight and consequent "drag." It is easy to build and therefore well built.

The Maxwell Car can be taken care of by any owner without calling in experts every fortnight.

It is so simple that it is everlastingly reliable. Making the Maxwell Motor Car simple means that the buyer can save a handsome sum in the purchase as well as in subsequent upkeep.

300,000 Maxwell users throughout the world have found that the Maxwell original simple chassis construction saves them money every day.
